

No Style

no-style is an open, non-validated style (aside from uniqueness). IDs are manually allocated and can contain letters, numbers and/or special characters (including spaces). This style has more flexibility, but also less protection - it will consider "A1", "A 1", "A001", "A0 01", and "A 001" all different items.

Special characters may cause certain labels and functions to fail.

no-style does not offer next available ID (as there are no rules to tell it what comes next).

Revision #1

Created 9 May 2023 02:05:14 by Caris Morris

Updated 9 May 2023 02:13:53 by Caris Morris